Why Andina Pack?

Andina Pack is the most important business fair in the region focused on production, processing, packaging and handling technologies for the food and beverage and pharmaceutical industries. Aimed at owners and executives of production and/or commercial companies.

Andina Pack attracts experts from manufacturing and packaging industries for the food and beverage sectors including owners, managers, quality control supervisors, R&D managers, engineers, logistics managers, sales support and more.

Andina Pack Powered by Anuga offers all types of processing and packaging technologies for two main industries: food and beverage and pharmaceutical and cosmetics.

Colombia is the third largest economy in Latin America and its capital, Bogotá, is the largest food and beverage market and production center in Colombia. It represents 45% of the total sales of the industry in the country and 39 of the 100 leading companies in the sector are located within it.
